

Understanding The Papermaking Process

Understanding The Papermaking Process – Series 1

The first papermaking course designed specifically for managers in the UK industry.

This programme starts with a generic P&L account and overlays it with the papermaking process and its variables. After that we're drilling down below the surface to understand the nature of the process and how it works.

Benefits

Participants will:

- Take a 5-day journey through the papermaking process and discover how papermakers can influence their machine's 'Overall Equipment Effectiveness'.
- Appreciate the variables that have the highest leverage on quality and productivity
- Walk in the footsteps of operational managers and see papermaking through their eyes
- Dust off their knowledge of biology, chemistry, physics and maths – that's papermaking!
- Meet other managers working in similar circumstances

Programme

The programme blends theory, simulation and practice into an unforgettable experience that is truly unique in the UK.

Understanding The Papermaking Process

Programme

During the five days, you will learn about: Global Paper Industry; Fibres; Stock Preparation; De-inking; Stock Approach Flow; Sheet Formation; Wet-end Chemistry; Pressing; Drying; and Surface Modification.

Each day will incorporate face-to-face learning, simulated papermaking and technical studies in the wet and dry laboratory.

The week will culminate, on Day 5, in you working as a member of the crew of a 0.5m wide commercial papermachine, putting into practice all that you have learned during the previous four days.
